ABSTRACT

Identifying Linguistics Features of Coca-Cola Advertisement Slogans

(Nadia Ramadhani, 2021, 60 pages)

This report aims to identify the linguistics features of Coca-Cola advertisement slogans. The data were collected from the websites of Coca-Cola Company. This research used systematic random sampling to choose ten slogans from forty slogans of Coca-Cola since 1904-2003. The research method used is qualitative content analysis. The writer used Grey's (2008) theory that stated there are two kinds of linguistics features, they are lexical features and syntactic features. Each linguistics feature has ten features. The writer found that the sample of this research used 5 lexical features which are: simple vocabulary, weasel word, familiar language, hyperbole and repetition; 8 syntactic features that used are: present tense, short sentence, incomplete sentence, imperative, ellipsis, long noun phrase, syntactic parallelism, and association. In conclusion, the writer interpreted that each feature has its own function in persuading the intended audience.

Keywords: Slogans, Lexical Features, Syntactic Features.
