

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION & SUGGESTION

This chapter explains about conclusion and suggestion of the final report.

5.1. CONCLUSION

The final product has been done by following the research method developed by Sukmadinata (2005) that consists of preliminary study, model development, and product testing and dissemination. In this case, the writer only stopped the work until the revision from wider testing and did not do the product testing and dissemination because the lack of time, and budget.

After writing the short story book entitled “After the Rain”, the writer found that in writing a short story the author needs to consider about the plot, character, theme, setting, language, and so on. The other aspect that important in writing a short story is the language aspect, it needs to be simple but still pay attention to the choosing of the right words and sentences.

The process of writing the short story book based on the theories and also some experts and respondent’s suggestions and comments that related to their knowledge about short story. The writer revised the product based on the experts along with respondent’s suggestions, critics, and comments in limited and wider testing that make the short story book becomes a good product

5.2. SUGGESTION

The writer suggests to the readers of this report to make this as one of the references that they could use in developing their own research especially about short story in the future. The writer also suggests to readers of Students at English Department that this short story can be provide entertainment for them. The writer expects the future researcher to use product testing and dissemination to make the product more developed, can be more creative in introducing tourism destinations in Bangka Island.
