

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

In this chapter, the writer presents the conclusion and suggestion related to designing a storybook of Si Pahit Lidah to preserve the legend from Ogan Komering Ulu that was created by the writer.

5.1 Conclusion

Based on the explanation above, the writer concluded that there were some stages and steps that had to be followed in creating a storybook telling about the legend. Previously, the legends were delivered from one generation to another generation orally. The writer tried to present the written version of the legend of “Si Pahit Lidah”. It is dedicated to the people of South Sumatera especially to the people of OKU region because the legend came from that region. The reader respondents believed that this product can be used to preserve the culture especially to preserve the legend from Ogan Komering Ulu region. There are 3 stages that had to be conducted in this R & D research, namely Preliminary Study, Model/Product Development, and Final Product Testing. In preliminary study, the writer prepared the data needed to arrange the product draft by conducted the literature study and field survey. The product draft that had been developed was reviewed by the expert of design and linguistic/language. In model/product development, the product draft was tested in limited testing step and in wider testing step. However, due to limited funding, legality, and time, the product draft that had been revised in wider testing step was considered as the final product.

5.2 Suggestion

The writer suggests that the product of this final report can be used by next researchers as a reference and developed to preserve Ogan Komering Ulu culture so that this storybook can be published, and distributed to public libraries, schools, and bookstores in South Sumatra area, especially in Ogan Komering Ulu region.
