

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

This chapter presents the conclusion and the suggestion of designing a novella script entitled “99 Days”.

5.1 Conclusion

In the process of designing a novella script entitled ‘99 Days’, the writer used Research and Methodology by Sukmadinata (2005). The steps are Preliminary Study, Development of product, and Final Product and Dissemination to obtain a good final report. First, in preliminary study the writer did the literature study, field survey by observation and interview, and arranged the product draft. Second, in the development of the product, the writer has already done limited field testing and wider field testing. In the limited field testing, the writer asked experts such as the author who has English background and book cover designer. After revising some mistakes according to the expert’s suggestions and comments, the writer asked the other experts of the author who have English background, copy editor, book cover designer, and people from the community in wider testing to correct some mistakes in the script. After consulting the script, the story content, and the design of novella’s book cover and novella’s layout, the writer finally got the perfect script and novella’s design. As a result of scientific research, the writer has an obligation to share the writer’s knowledge to the public. Therefore, the writer published the novella through Wattpad as the dissemination of this research.

5.2 Suggestion

The writer suggests to the readers of this report to use this as one of the sources to continue developing new ideas in writing the final report about designing a novella script. The writer also suggests to the readers of novella that they could develop their ability, idea, and skill to increase their creativity in making their own product.
