

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

This chapter presents the conclusion of designing a novella script entitled “2000” and the suggestion for the purpose of the novella.

5.1 Conclusion

In the process of designing a novella script, the writer used Research and Methodology by Sukmadinata (2005). It has some steps followed. They are Preliminary Study, Development of product, and Final Product Testing and Dissemination to obtain a good final report. First, in preliminary study, the writer did the literature study and field survey by interview, observation, and documentation, and arranging the product draft. Second, in the development of product the writer did revision to make the product developed. Next the writer has also already done limited field testing and wider field testing. In the limited field testing, the writer asked experts such as the author has English background and book cover designer to revise the product until the finished product draft. Then the writer also asked the experts of the author has English background, copy editor, book cover designer, and people from community in the wider testing to correct some mistakes in the script. After consulting the script, the story content, and the design of novella’s book cover and novella’s layout, the writer finally got the perfect script and novella’s design. As a result of scientific research, the writer has an obligation to share the writer’s knowledge to public. Therefore, the writer published the novella through the Wattpad as the dissemination of this research.

5.2 Suggestion

The writer suggests to the readers of this report to make this one of the sources to continue developing new ideas in writing the final report about designing a novella script. The writer also suggests to the readers of the novella that could develop their skills, ideas, and abilities to increase their creativity in making their own product.