

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTION

This chapter presents the conclusions and suggestions from the writing a website content of the English Department at Politeknik Negeri Sriwijaya Website.

5.1 Conclusions

The focus on this research is writing a website content of the English Department at Politeknik Negeri Sriwijaya Website. The method that is used in writing website content is research and development method including preliminary study, Product Design and Development and Product Testing. Firstly, the preliminary study implements the early stages of development, which is documentation and analyzing the questionnaire. The collected data is then processed to be developed into a website content design by considering important elements in the website such as a simple and effective display, using a list over long paragraphs, using common language and a short paragraph. Secondly product design and development, this part divided into 3 steps, the first is to determine the content, design and language assessment in the website. There are three experts used in making this English Department page content update. The three experts are experts in design, Indonesian and English, this website design has been quite complete and good, but there are only one suggestion and improvement. The suggestion regarding the logo of Politeknik Negeri Sriwijaya that have not yet exist

5.2 Suggestion

Due to the fact that the research in this final report only do the product testing to the students who studying at the Sriwijaya State Polytechnic, the writer provides a suggestion for further researchers to do product testing to high school students where they are the target visitors of this website.
