

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

This chapter contains conclusion and suggestion of all parts in this report.

5.1 Conclusion

There are some reasons of English Department students to use internet as the media of grammar learning process. First, students use internet because it faster and instant access than other media. Second, they use internet because the grammar matter that is available in internet media diverse or not only referring to one source. Third, they use internet as the media of grammar learning process for its effectiveness to help them in grammar study. Finally they use internet because most of references in the internet are easier to find than others media.

There are also some advantages of English Department students to use internet as the media of grammar learning process. Firstly, students may understand the material of grammar study faster. Secondly, if the students understand the material of grammar study faster, so shift of materials in class also may run faster. Thirdly, because of grammar matters that are available in internet media diverse, students may determine the source of which is more easily to be studied and more complete the material. And finally, students may get many references without spending much time in searching supporting material out of the class.

5.2 Suggestion

Based on the results of this reports, the second year at English Department really have utilized the main characteristic of internet such as fast, easy and instant through their answer on the questionnaires. Although it is good to follow the globalization era and technology development, but they also still need to find other sources of study except internet itself, like books, paper, scientific reports and so on, at the library or they can buy some books source in a bookstore.

In addition, internet also has changed the way of students learn grammar inside or outside their class. They always think that they may finish their material and assignments faster and easier. As we know, not all of contents in internet come from trusted sources, and they should clarify any references that they already got from the internet with other sources to make it sure and well understandable.