

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

5.1 Conclusion

The writer would like to conclude that there are 154 passive voices found in the methodology chapter of the students' final reports based on the forms and the types of passive voice. There were found passive voices in simple present, simple past, present perfect, past perfect, present future, past future and modal verbs with passives. The types of passive voices are passive voice with agent, passive voice without agent, and passive voice with to-infinitive. The most incorrect passive voices found in the simple present form. The writer found the average of students did errors because they forgot the formulas. Some students also already knew the formulas and they had a good percentage in the correct sentences, especially in passive simple past tense.

5.2 Suggestions

The writer suggests the readers especially the students of English Department at State Polytechnic of Sriwijaya to be careful in writing. They should be careful with grammar especially passive voice, because if there is a mistake, it will affect the meaning of sentences. The students also should read more books and literatures related to the use of passive voice.
