The purpose of this final report is to find out how to design a storybook entitled Putri Ayu Urang Silam in order to preserve cultures. In writing this final report, the writer applied Research and Development (R&D) which was modified by Sukmadinata (2005). The stages were: Preliminary study, model development, and final product testing. In Preliminary stage, the writer conducted literature study, field survey and model/product draft. In model development stage, the writer conducted limited testing step and wider testing step. The result revealed that in designing the storybook, the design was created by the writer and supported by some expert's suggestion for better final revision. All the collected data from the interviews were inserted to the storybook and arranged into a good design to be printed as a trial printed version as reviewed by two experts: design and language. It was pointed out some items needed to be revised: color, illustration, and page number from design expert and grammar and diction of the text from language expert. The comments and suggestions from the experts were used to revise the final product.
