

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

5.1 Conclusion

Based on the explanation above, the writer concludes that the storybook can be used to preserve the culture of the legend story from Lubuk Linggau region. The writer targeting people who needs to know the legend story from Lubuk Linggau region as the reader of the storybook. The steps in designing the story book were :

1. From the literature study, the writer found that there were 3 versions of the folktale of Dayang Torek. It happened because folktale is an oral tradition which spread and is inherited hereditary traditionally in a different version in public life. It is in line with the idea mentioned by Danandjaya (2007), regarding the spread of folktale orally in community in a long time from generation to generation.
2. Based on the interview in the field survey, the writer chose the most popular version. Related to Ms. Khofifah Lubis who knows well about the story, the first time she heard the story from her mother when she was 5 years old, and until now she still heard the same version from her teacher. The story version that she hears was the same story from the journal of RD Kedum (2013), so the writer decided to retold the story from the journal of RD Kedum (2013).
3. In limited testing, the writer showed the model/product draft to the expert in linguistics to check the validity of English writing. This activity should be conducted to find out an appropriate content on the basis of English writing. It is in line with the idea mentioned by Susantoleo (2010:102), writing is a process of expressing ideas or thoughts in words should be done at leisure.
4. In wider testing, the writer showed the second draft to the participants as the user of the storybook. This activity counducted to get the comments and suggestions from the user. According to Sukamadinata (2005:385) the researcher such us students can stoped the research until wider testing because the limited of cost, time, and knowledge, because of that the writer stoped this research until wider testing

5.2 Suggestions

Due to the limitation in budget, time and knowledge, it is expected in the future that the product will be have more participants in reading the story, it is also expected the storybook can release in the public, and the storybook can available in the public library and book stores.
